DECISIONS OF INTEREST

APP. DIV. | CORPORATE ENTITIES

Plaintiff Cannot Sue Cooperative Board Separately; Dismissal of Fiduciary Claims Upheld

The court had dismissed plaintiff's breach of fiduciary duty claims against the cooperative corporation and most of the individual board members. Plaintiff interposed a second amended complaint in which he asserted a breach of fiduciary duty claim against the board of the cooperative corporation, as distinct from the now-dismissed breach of fiduciary duty causes of action. The motion court granted plaintiff's motion to add the board president as board representative, noting the instant court has held that the board of a cooperative corporation is directly amenable to suit, as opposed to the cooperative corporation and/or individual board members. The instant court held that this holding misinterpreted its precedent, and it now clarified that the board of directors of a corporation is not amenable to suit, separate and apart from being sued in its representative capacity for the corporation. Here, plaintiff originally brought breach of fiduciary duty causes of action against individual board members and the corporation. Those causes of action were largely dismissed, and plaintiff may not simply replace those parties with "the board" to revive those now dismissed claims.

NEW YORK | EVIDENCE

Construction Incident Report Prepared By Now-Deceased Field Superintendent Is Admissible

This action arose from an accident that occurred at a construction site where plaintiff allegedly slipped and fell on paint that had been covered by cardboard, sustaining serious injuries. Foster, a field superintendent employed by defendant Icon Interiors, prepared an internal report describing the incident. In that report, Foster memorialized a purported statement attributed to a painter employed by defendant JTC Painting & Decorating Corp., who allegedly admitted to covering spilled paint with cardboard. Foster later gave deposition testimony but passed away thereafter. The parties stipulated Foster's deposition may be read at trial. JTC subsequently sought to preclude the report, contending it is hearsay, lacks the necessary foundation, and, if admitted, would result in unfair prejudice by allowing the jury to consider unreliable, self-serving, and untested statements. Plaintiffs asserted the report qualifies as a business record, is presumptively authentic under CPLR §4540-a, and contains admissible opposing-party statements under CPLR §4549. The court held that the report meets the foundational and statutory requirements for admissibility under NY law.

APP. DIV. | REAL ESTATE

Court Affirms 'Heirs Property' Partition Must Consider Good-Faith, Equitable Factors

Plaintiff appealed for the partition and sale of certain real property after the supreme court denied plaintiff's motion to reject a referee's report and for a valuation hearing with respect to the subject property pursuant to RPAPL 993(6). Pursuant to RPAPL 993, property that qualifies as "heirs property" within the meaning of RPAPL 993(2)(e) is subject to the mandates of the Uniform Partition of Heirs Property Act (UPHPA), which supersedes the general partition statutes, including RPAPL 901. Here, the court noted that there was no dispute that the property qualifies as "heirs property" under the statute. Further, the court added that since the UPHPA applies to "partition actions filed on or after the effective date of this section," it was satisfied that both the plain language of RPAPL 993 and the purpose behind the enactment of the UPHPA firmly establish that a determination of whether the parties negotiated in "good faith" under RPAPL 993(5)(e), which requires an assessment of the totality of the circumstances, should include an assessment as to whether the parties considered the equitable factors set forth in RPAPL 993(9) during their settlement negotiations.

U.S. - EDNY | ATTORNEY RATES AND ARRANGEMENTS

Court Awards $21,000 in Attorneys' Fees To Hague Child Abduction Victim

Petitioner, who prevailed under the Hague Child Abduction Convention, moved for an award of $21,000 in attorneys' fees and $1,466 in costs pursuant to the International Child Abduction Remedies Act. Respondent abducted the former couple's children from Canada under the pretense of a short visit to the U.S. and failed to arrange for their return. Although the case resulted in a default judgment, there was substantial provisional remedy practice prior to that as well as extensive post-judgment enforcement proceedings, resulting in the children's return. The court's analysis required it to calculate the lodestar and then adjust it based on case-specific considerations. The court granted the award to petitioner, noting that while some of the rates petitioner sought might seem high if viewed in isolation, the court allowed them here because petitioner's attorneys have already effectively discounted their rates. The court also found the amount of time expended in the case to be reasonable, considering all the chasing of respondent that petitioner had to undertake and the resultant need for frequent motions and communications with the court and the U.S. Marshal.

NYCHRL Claims Dismissed Against Cuomo, Aides for Lack of Protected Relationship, Right

Plaintiff, a trooper who has worked as a law enforcement officer with the NYS Police since 2015, asserted federal claims against former NY Gov. Cuomo for discrimination and retaliation under the Equal Protection Clause, as well as claims against Cuomo, DeRosa, and Cuomo representative Azzopardi for discrimination and retaliation under the NYS and NYC Human Rights Laws (HRL). The federal court dismissed the discrimination and retaliation claims as no employer-employee relationship existed. Only Cuomo remains as a defendant in the federal action. Plaintiff brought an action in state court with the same set of facts as in the federal action against the three defendants for interference under the NYCHRL. DeRosa and Azzopardi moved to dismiss as against them on the grounds of res judicata. Plaintiff argued dismissal of the claims against DeRosa and Azzopardi in the federal action is not a final judgment or a dismissal on the merits. The instant court granted dismissal as to all defendants, including Cuomo, as plaintiff failed to sufficiently identify both a NYCHRL-recognized relationship with defendants or a NYCHRL-protected right with which they interfered.

NEW YORK | LANDLORD TENANT LAW

Landlord Is a Bona Fide Purchaser Entitled To Recording Statute Protections

Petitioner brought a holdover summary proceeding, seeking to recover possession of a commercial premises. The court was presented with two issues at trial: whether a valid lease exists and, assuming the lease is valid, whether petitioner is entitled to the benefit of the recording statute as a bona fide purchaser for value. Petitioner argued the owner purchased the property for value, without reservation of rights with respect to the subject premises; and petitioner had neither actual nor constructive knowledge of the lease, such that the lease cannot be enforceable against petitioner under the recording statute as a bona fide purchaser. Petitioner also argued the lease was fraudulent, backdated, and manufactured for litigation. The court held petitioner was a bona fide purchaser of the premises entitled to protections of the recording statute, as it did not have actual or constructive knowledge of respondent's purported sweetheart lease. The finding assumed the sweetheart lease was valid and so the court did not have to consider whether respondent backdated the lease prior to petitioner's purchase of the property or whether it was manufactured for litigation purposes.

WESTCHESTER | FAMILY LAW

Father Awarded Full Legal, Physical Custody; Children's International Travel Restricted

Following commencement of a matrimonial proceeding spanning five years, a trial was held regarding custody and access of the parties' children, followed by a hearing regarding the validity and enforceability of a purported prenuptial agreement. After trial, the court granted full legal and physical custody of the children to the father, with the mother having supervised access, finding the mother was unfit and a flight risk since she took the children's birth certificates with her to her home country of Russia, in an apparent attempt to gain dual citizenship of the children. The court also directed that international travel with the children be limited to countries that are signatories to the Hague Convention on Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction, participating and recognizing a partnership with the U.S., in a further attempt to safeguard the children from potential abduction. The court also directed any decisions pertaining to citizenship of the children to be made jointly, or pursuant to court order, with neither party seeking the issuance and/or renewal of passports for the children from any governmental entity other than U.S.

U.S. - WDNY | EMPLOYMENT LITIGATION

Court Dismisses Fired Employee's Religious, §1983 Claims Over NY Vaccine Mandate

Plaintiff, a "devout and practicing Roman Catholic," sued under 42 U.S.C. §1983, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and the NYS Human Rights Law, alleging she worked for defendant People Inc. from 2017 until 2021, when she was fired for refusing to get the COVID-19 vaccine or submit to weekly testing based on a NYS vaccination mandate. Plaintiff sued People, its "affiliate corporation," and six of People's employees. She also sued NYS Gov. Kathy Hochul and then-Acting Commissioner of the NYS Department of Health James V. McDonald in their individual and official capacities. The court dismissed plaintiff's §1983 claim based on the state defendants' alleged violation of her right against the establishment of religion, finding no basis to hold that 10 N.Y.C.C.R. §2.61 established any kind of religious preference. The court also cited Jacobson v. Massachusetts, which held that state governments had the power to require smallpox vaccinations. And although the plaintiff in that case brought a due process, rather than a First Amendment, challenge to the same mandate, Jacobson speaks to a broader history of vaccine requirements in the U.S.

NEW YORK | REAL ESTATE

Trustee's Bid to Sell Condos Denied; Combined Units Qualify for Homestead Exemption

Petitioner, trustee for the substantively consolidated liquidation of Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities, sought a declaratory judgment that condominium units owned by respondents, unknowing beneficiaries of Madoff's scheme, are not subject to a homestead exemption. Respondents own three apartments that were converted into one contagious unit. Petitioner sought the declaratory judgment and subsequent sale for Units 14B and 14C at 45 Christopher Street, NY. Respondents argued these units, along with Unit 14A, also owned by respondents, were combined to make one unit in 1995 and the combined unit is their primary residence and thus subject to the CPLR §5206 homestead exemption. Petitioner argued respondents are only entitled to the homestead exemption for Unit 14A, the combined unit can be separated, and 14B and 14C can then be sold. The court applied principles of eminent domain that separate parcels are generally considered as comprising a single unit only when three requirements are met: there is unity of title or ownership, unity of use, and the parcels are contiguous. The court denied the petition, as the combined apartments met all three elements.

BRONX | CRIMINAL LAW

Retroactive CPL §245 Amendments Applied; Prosecution Lacked Due Diligence

The court conducted a discovery conference, directing the prosecution to turn over to the defendant Internal Affairs Bureau (IAB) attachments and to submit for the court's in-camera review other IAB attachments. The prosecution never obtained the IAB attachments, and defendant moved to dismiss the accusatory instrument for the prosecution's discovery lapse. When examining the People's due diligence to obtain discoverable material, the court had to determine whether it applies 2023's People v. Bay, which defined "due diligence," or the Legislature's amendment of Art. 245 of the Criminal Procedure Law, which included its own definition of "due diligence". The court held that the Art. 245 procedural amendments applied to pending actions, including actions when the prosecution filed the certificate of compliance before the amendments' effective date. Alternatively, the 2025 amendments were remedial, so they should be applied retroactively. Using the newly defined due diligence factors, the court held the prosecution did not exercise due diligence when it failed to obtain two sets of discovery that the court previously ordered the prosecution to obtain.

U.S. - SDNY | CLASS ACTIONS

Plaintiff Does Not Meet Class Definition, Cannot Participate in Class Settlement

Pro se plaintiff moved for, among other things, reconsideration of the court's order denying his application to participate in the class settlement in the underlying litigation on the ground that he did not meet the settlement class definition. In his motion for reconsideration, plaintiff contended that the court construed the settlement class definition too narrowly. The court now denied plaintiff's motion, noting that plaintiff could not overcome the clear language of the settlement class definition, which covers only those persons detained by Department of Corrections (DOC) who could be released upon payment of bail. Because DOC could not release plaintiff after he posted bail until he cleared a surety examination, he could not be "released from DOC Custody upon payment of bail." The court added that this interpretation is not "arbitrary," as plaintiff claimed, but it is instead the class definition that the parties agreed to and that the court certified. Further, if the DOC in fact delayed in releasing plaintiff after he posted bail and cleared his surety examination, that claim is not one of the claims that was settled in this lawsuit.
