Court Grants Claimant’s Late Claim For Violation of Directive

Movant, an incarcerated individual and a professed Rastafarian, sought permission from the court to bring a late claim alleging that, upon his intake at Green Haven Correctional Facility, he was threatened with violence by two correction officers if he did not submit to a regulation haircut of his dreadlocks. Movant explained his religious belief as a Rastafarian and presented a court order prohibiting the New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision from cutting his hair. The two correction officers allegedly ripped up the court order and cut off movant’s dreadlocks in violation of DOCCS’s Directive exempting movant from a regulation haircut based upon his religious beliefs. The court found that movant made a sufficient showing to warrant granting his late claim application.

NEW YORK | PERSONAL INJURY

Child Victims Act Case Dismissed After Renewal of Motion

Claimant commenced an action against defendant, State of New York, pursuant to the Child Victims Act, alleging that he was repeatedly sexually abused and assaulted, while under the State’s custody, at the Kingsboro Psychiatric Center in Brooklyn. The state moved to dismiss. The motion was denied. The state then moved to renew its dismissal. The motion was granted and the action was dismissed. The court held that claimant failed to credibly establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the State was negligent in hiring, retaining or supervising the State’s employees at Kingsboro. Nor did claimant sufficiently establish that the State negligently supervised or ignored claimant’s complaints as the Kingsboro records and witnesses’ testimony indicated that proper protocols were followed.

NEW YORK | LITIGATION

Court Orders Relinquishment of Painting To Painter’s Heirs

An action was brought before the court concerning the New York County District Attorney’s Office Antiquities Trafficking Unit’s request for a turnover order for an artwork by Austrian artist Egon Schiele titled Russian War Prisoner, which was the subject of a seizure-in-place order and in the physical possession of the Art Institute of Chicago. The application requested that the artwork be returned to the possession of the legally-declared heirs of Franz Fredrich Grünbaum, who owned the painting before his murder by the Nazis at Dachau Concentration Camp during the Holocaust. The Art Institute of Chicago opposed the order, arguing that they are the legal owners of Russian War Prisoner, as the artwork was legally purchased by them with sufficient evidence detailing the painting’s legal sale by Grünbaum’s sister-in-law shortly after his murder. The court granted the People’s application for a turnover order, and ordered that the artwork be relinquished to the legal heirs of its last legitimate owner, Fritz Grünbaum.

NEW YORK | REAL ESTATE

Summary Judgment Denied in Succession Rights Case

Several years after defendant was granted succession rights, plaintiff required him to effectuate the transfer of shares for the apartment to himself to continue residing there by surrendering the apartment shares, paying outstanding charges, and formally purchasing the unit as a successor transferee. Plaintiff moved for summary judgment on all claims, arguing that defendant had no legal right to remain in the apartment and owes significant arrears in use and occupancy. The motion was denied. The court held that defendant could amend their answer to include adverse possession. The court further found that issues of fact remained as to ejectment and use and occupancy precluding summary judgment; finding that issues of fact remained as to who has the superior possessory right to the unit, rendering any declaratory judgment inapt.

BRONX | CRIMINAL LAW

Insufficiently Pleaded Account Allows Court To Dismiss Criminal Action

Defendant was charged with one count of driving while intoxicated, per se, driving while intoxicated, driving while impaired. Defendant moved to dismiss by alleging that the top count, driving while intoxicated, per se, was insufficiently pleaded and, thus, the Bronx District Attorney’s Office’s statement of readiness was illusory. The People argued that defendant should be estopped from challenging the facial sufficiency of the VTL § 1192 (2) charge where she refused to submit to a breathalyzer test. The court disagreed, finding that while defendant may have been employing a sword/shield tactic in her defense, the prosecution had exclusive dominion to decide what facts are to be alleged in the criminal complaint, which set forth no allegation that defendant’s BAC was .08 of one per centum or more.

KINGS | CIVIL PROCEDURE

Defendant Barred From Contesting Merits Of Underlying Judgment Due to Res Judicata

Plaintiff brought an action to renew a judgment. Plaintiff moved for a default judgment against defendant, the judgment debtor. Among defendant’s arguments were that he never had a contract with plaintiff, he obtained gas and oil from someone else, he never incurred the debt which was the subject of this case, and no invoices, contracts, or account statements were submitted with an affidavit to establish compliance with CPLR 3215 (f)’s requirement that an application for a default judgment be accompanied by proof of the facts constituting the claim. The motion was granted. The court held defendant’s arguments regarding the underlying judgment were barred by res judicata and should have been asserted in the action where the judgment was entered.

U.S. - SDNY | CONTRACTS

Revised Vesting Schedule Is Unenforceable Under the New York Statute of Frauds

A private equity investor sued her former employer, a private equity firm, to recover payments she claimed were owed based on a modification of her employment agreement. Plaintiff’s breach of contract claim was based on the theory that a revised vesting schedule modified her employment contract, and that defendant breached an agreement, pursuant to that modification, to pay her an increased share of carried interest in a private equity fund managed by defendant. In moving to dismiss, defendant argued that, to be effective, the alleged modification was required to have been in a signed writing. The court dismissed this claim, finding the revised vesting schedule unenforceable since it does not qualify as an enforceable “writing” within the meaning of the NY Statute of Frauds. In her promissory estoppel claim, plaintiff sought enforcement of defendant’s alleged promise to compensate her according to the revised vesting schedule. The court found that, in light of the parties’ written agreement’s no-oral-modification clause, plaintiff is barred from recovering under promissory estoppel as it made her reliance on defendant’s oral representations inherently unreasonable.

U.S. - SDNY | DISPUTE RESOLUTION

Petitioner Fails to Show Arbitrators Issued Award in Manifest Disregard of the Law

Petitioner brought an action against his former employer, respondent BGC Financial, which fired him in 2017. Petitioner filed a statement of claim with FINRA Dispute Resolution Services against respondent and several others. An arbitration panel issued an award for respondent to be solely liable and pay petitioner $500,000 in compensatory damages. All other claims against the other respondents were dismissed in their entirety, and all other claims for statutory and/or punitive damages and attorneys’ fees were denied. Petitioner initiated the instant motion to vacate, arguing the award was issued in manifest disregard of the law as it bears no resemblance to any of petitioner’s damage calculations. He contended the panel erred in failing to grant to him on his breach of contract and Dodd-Frank whistleblower claims the compensation that he would have received had his employment not been terminated. The instant court denied petitioner’s motion, finding that it is untimely. The court also determined that petitioner failed to show that the arbitrators knew of a well-defined, applicable, governing legal principle and refused to apply it.

Breach of Contract Claim Survives Against Defendant Hired to Sell Products to Walmart

Plaintiff Ikigai Marketing produces and sells dog-odor-eliminating products for Pooph, Inc. In 2022, Ikigai hired defendant to sell Pooph products to Walmart. Plaintiff said that defendant lied about the amount of Pooph that Walmart planned to order, which led plaintiff to produce over 50,000 extra units of Pooph that went unsold. Plaintiff sued for breach of contract, deceptive business practices, negligent misrepresentation, intentional interference with contractual relations, and a declaratory judgment. The court granted defendant’s motion to dismiss the complaint, in part. Among other things, the court declined to dismiss the breach of contract claim, finding defendant failed to explain why the allegations, if taken as true, fail to constitute a plausible breach of the agreement’s provision requiring defendant to “use [his] best efforts to promote, distribute, and sell the Products for [plaintiff] within the Territory.” However, the court dismissed the declaratory relief claim, noting that the Declaratory Judgment Act “provides a remedy, not a cause of action.” As a result, plaintiff cannot sustain an independent cause of action for a declaratory judgment.

U.S. - WDNY | CLASS ACTIONS

Court Certifies ‘Checkpoint Class,’ ‘Tinted Windows Class’ in Action Against City

Plaintiffs sued the City of Buffalo defendants on behalf of themselves and other Black and Latino motorists in the City, claiming the City has unlawfully targeted Black and Latino motorists via use of administrative traffic checkpoints. Even after the Checkpoints were discontinued, they asserted that City police officers continue to systematically target Black and Latino motorists for traffic enforcement, fines, and penalties. Plaintiffs sought to certify three distinct classes: a “Checkpoint Class”; a “Tinted Windows Class”; and a “Traffic Enforcement Class.” Plaintiffs sought a declaration that defendants have violated their constitutional rights and a class-wide injunction mandating significant changes in defendants’ policies, practices, and customs, as well as an award of compensatory and punitive damages, attorneys’ fees, and costs. The court granted plaintiffs’ motion to certify the class, in part, holding plaintiffs failed to establish that the members of the Traffic Enforcement Class have standing. However, the court found plaintiffs established commonality, typicality, adequacy, ascertainability, and predominance for the Checkpoint Class and Tinted Windows Class.

U.S. - WDNY | FEE DISPUTES

Counsel Must Refund to Plaintiff Previously Received Equal Access to Justice Act Fee

In 2023, plaintiff sought review of the Commissioner of Social Security’s denial of her application for Disability Insurance Benefits. Plaintiff moved for judgment on the pleadings and, in 2024, the court reversed the Commissioner’s final decision and remanded the matter for further proceedings. The court then approved payment of $9,900 to plaintiff’s counsel pursuant to the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA) for services performed in connection with this action and $402 in costs. The Commissioner subsequently issued a Notice of Award in connection with plaintiff’s claim, which stated that the Commissioner withheld $20,116.25 from plaintiff’s past-due benefits to pay plaintiff’s attorneys’ fees. Plaintiff then moved under 42 U.S.C. §406(b) seeking $20,116.25 in attorneys’ fees. In his motion, plaintiff’s counsel indicated that his firm received the sum of $9,900 under the EAJA, which he will refund to plaintiff. The instant court granted plaintiff’s motion for attorneys’ fees under §406(b), awarded plaintiff’s counsel attorneys’ fees in the amount of $20,116.25, and ordered that plaintiff’s counsel refund the previously received EAJA fee of $9,900 to plaintiff.
