Summary Judgment Denied; Issue of Fact As to Whether Attack Was Foreseeable

Claimant, an incarcerated individual, sought summary judgment on a claim alleging that, during his incarceration at Eastern NY Correctional Facility, he was the victim of an unprovoked attack from behind by at least four unknown inmate and there was no correction officer in sight to prevent or stop the attack and that claimant was not provided with adequate medical care. The State opposed the motion arguing that claimant's own exhibits indicate that claimant was involved in a fight in the yard with one other inmate, which was inconsistent with the allegations of the claim, and that claimant failed to submit any medical evidence of inadequate medical care. The court denied the motion for summary judgment and found that there are genuine issues of material fact warranting a trial, including whether the incident was or should have been foreseeable to the State and could have been prevented.

KINGS | MEDICAL MALPRACTICE

Late Notice of Claim Alleging Medical Malpractice Permitted

Petitioner sought leave to file a late notice of claim against respondent for alleged malpractice in delivering her child. Petitioner claimed that respondent should have had her delivery days or even hours earlier. The result was that at 18 months of age, her infant suffered permanent damage and will likely suffer significant developmental disabilities as he grows older. The court granted the application. Petitioner had a manifestly reasonable excuse for not sooner filing a claim to protect her infant's rights: her chief concern was in caring for her child after birth. Petitioner also claimed that there was a delay in obtaining records from respondent. Respondent was not substantially prejudiced by the delay in its ability to maintain its defense on the merits. The delay in filing the late notice of claim was less than one year, and respondent possessed its records in order to maintain a defense. Respondent already conducted a § 50-h hearing after the late notice of claim was filed. The notice of claim was filed prior to expiration of the one-year-and-90-day statute of limitations.

SECOND CIRCUIT | IMMIGRATION LAW

Immigration Agency Properly Relied on Interview When Making Adverse Credibility Decision

The Board of Immigration Appeals upheld an immigration judge's order denying Singh asylum, withholding of removal, and relief under the Convention Against Torture. On appeal Singh argued that the agency erred by making an adverse credibility determination based solely on an inconsistency between his hearing testimony and statements made at his border interview. Acknowledging the inconsistency, Singh claimed the agency did not evaluate the reliability of the border interview under the standards in Ramsameachire v. Ashcroft. Second Circuit denied Singh review. After the REAL ID Act's enactment in 2005, the BIA adopted a totality-of-circumstances inquiry required by 8 USC §1151(b)(i)(B)(iii). Here, because the agency considered Singh's arguments about the reliability of the border interview, it properly relied on the interview to make an adverse credibility determination.

U.S. - EDNY | EMPLOYMENT LITIGATION

No Evidence Presented That Differential Treatment at Work Was Racially Based

Within its Humane Law Enforcement department the ASPCA operates a Community Engagement program helping owners to care for, or maintain a safe environment for, their pets. Byrne, who is black, was a CE coordinator (CEC). Among her claims for discrimination, retaliation, and aiding and abetting, Byrne asserted claims for a hostile work environment violating Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, and for constructive termination. Granting defendants summary judgment as to Byrne's Title VII claim, the court directed the parties to show cause why it should not decline to exercise subject matter jurisdiction over Byrne's five remaining claims. Byrne provided no evidence that any differential treatment was racially based, but made a case at most that she was not favorably viewed at work. Other than a stray remark by a non-decisionmaker—legally insufficient to raise a factual issue of a hostile work environment—Byrne's argument was based on her feeling that she was not treated nicely. Byrne's opinion that the ASPCA treats its black employees worse than its non-black employees was inadmissible evidence.

NEW YORK | REAL ESTATE

Prior Decision in Related Lawsuit Did Not Bind Current Case, Court Rules

In a dispute between a cooperative corporation and one of its shareholders, plaintiffs moved to reargue this court's pretrial ruling, which denied plaintiffs' oral application to amend the complaint on the eve of trial, to include causes of action from another action which were dismissed. Defendant opposed the motion. The motion was denied. Plaintiffs argued that the prior court's decision in another lawsuit were identical and constituted law of the case that the court was bound to follow. The court held however, the prior decision did not constitute law of the case. As plaintiffs acknowledged, the doctrine of law of the case applies only to legal determinations that were necessarily resolved on the merits in a prior decision.

SUFFOLK | LITIGATION

Intervention Granted to Town Pursuant to New York's Highway Laws

The Town of Southampton Superintendent of Highways sought to intervene as of right and by permission in an action between the land developer plaintiffs and the Town of Southampton concerning a dispute over an unpaved portion of Spinney Road that runs between two tracts of land owned by the plaintiffs. The Highway Superintendent sought intervention on the basis that the plaintiffs sought a writ of prohibition preventing Town officials, including the Superintendent, from removing infrastructure installed by the plaintiffs on the roadway, and on the basis that plaintiffs sought a declaration that the portion of the roadway had been abandoned by operation of law. The court determined that the Superintendent and the Town Highway Department were entitled to intervene as of right, and also by permission. The court found that New York's Highway Laws confer independent powers and duties upon the Superintendent of Highways, plus the fact that the Town authorized the expenditure of funds for independent legal representation for the Highway Department.

SECOND CIRCUIT | ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

State Department's Seizure of Passport, CRBA Violated APA, Due Process

Born in Yemen, and living in New York and California, Hadwan is legally a natural-born U.S. Citizen who has been stranded in Yemen for the past 12 years. In 2013, during a visit to the U.S. Embassy in Yemen to apply for immigration papers for his children, embassy staff retained his Consular Report of Birth Abroad (CRBA) and his passport, which the State Department arbitrarily revoked nine months later as having been fraudulently obtained. Second Circuit held that the State Department erred in two ways. Its decision upholding revocation of Hadwan's documents violated the Administrative Procedures Act. State's decision was arbitrary because it did not consider material, undisputed facts about Hadwan's English language literacy. Secondly, the State Department violated Hadwan's due process rights by revoking his CRBA and passport, thus limiting Hadwan's right to travel, without providing him an opportunity to be heard at a meaningful time and in a meaningful manner. Thus district court's judgment, and State's revocation of Hadwan's documents, was reversed. The State Department was ordered to return Hadwan's documents so that he could apply for a new passport.

U.S. - EDNY | BANKRUPTCY

Bankruptcy Petition Was Filed in 'Bad Faith'; Its Dismissal Not an Abuse of Discretion

Jesmeen appealed dismissal of her Chapter 13 bankruptcy petition. The petition underlying Jesmeen's appeal represented her sixth in a seven-year span. Several petitions had been filed within days of foreclosure sales, and her instant petition was filed one day before a foreclosure sale. Serial filings, as well as petitions filed to forestall creditors, are badges of "bad faith." Failure to file mandatory disclosures also evinces "bad faith." The bankruptcy court notified Jesmeen that she failed to file 11 documents within 14 days of her petition. Jesmeen's lawyer affirmed that he received no cooperation from her in fulfillment of such deficiencies, and Jesmeen's daughter has not provided such documents despite advising the court that she would do so. Thus it was not clearly erroneous for bankruptcy court to find that Jesmeen had filed in bad faith. Nor did it abuse its discretion in dismissing her petition. Thus the bankruptcy court's order was affirmed.

NEW YORK | CRIMINAL LAW

Charges Dismissed; Prosecution Made No Effort to Obtain Full Records

Defendant was arrested on a charge of forcible touching. Defendant moved to find the Manhattan District Attorney's Office's certificate of compliance and statement of readiness invalid and to dismiss his case. Specifically, defendant argued that the People failed to satisfy their discovery obligations under CPL § 245.20 (1), that their certificate of compliance was therefore invalid, and that the People therefore violated his right to a speedy trial. The People opposed. The motion was granted. The court held the People failed in giving due diligence and reasonable efforts to find mandatory discovery. The court held the People knew they were putting the prosecution of the case at risk; the People made no apparent effort to obtain the full records for their testifying officers' substantiated and unsubstantiated disciplinary matters. Their affirmation offered no information about when they contacted the NYPD, what they requested from the NYPD, what response they received, or whether they followed up about any outstanding materials.

ERIE | CRIMINAL LAW

Motion to Dismiss Denied; Prosecution Handed Over BOLO Discovery

Defendant was charged with criminal possession of a weapon in the second degree, three counts of criminal possession of a weapon in the third degree and criminal possession of a weapon in the fourth degree. The defendant filed a motion seeking various relief, specifically striking the Erie District Attorney's Office's Certificate of Compliance and dismissing the indictment due to the People's failure to meet their discovery obligations with in the statutory speedy trial period. The People have opposed the motion. The motion was denied. The court held the only information the defendant alleged was missing that the People were required to disclose was the BOLO. The People outlined, in part, their due diligence in acquiring the BOLO and immediately disclosed the document to the defendant upon its receipt. The document was disclosed two and a half months before any pre-trial hearing dates.

SECOND CIRCUIT | CIVIL PROCEDURE

Court Erred But Case Is Dismissed for Failure To Identify Member of 'Viable Fetus' Class

District court dismissed social worker Doe's constitutional challenges to New York's Reproductive Health Act (RHA)—which decriminalized all abortions and eliminated the criminal offense of fetal homicide—for lack of standing. Her two challenges on appeal included the assertion that the court erred in denying her motion to be appointed as the "next friend" to a class of viable fetuses in order to bring a constitutional challenge to the RHA on their behalf. The court allegedly legally erred in requiring Doe to show a "significant relationship" to the viable fetuses in the class, which Doe claimed was not a prerequisite to "next friend" representation under FRCP 17(c). Despite district court's error, Second Circuit affirmed dismissal of Doe's complaint on other grounds. Doe did not identify or describe any class member in the viable fetus class that she sought to represent. Absent description of at least one class member and of the injury he or she faced, Doe could not plausibly establish a live case or controversy under Article III.
