NEW YORK | ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

NYPD Ordered to Respond to 13 FOIL Requests on Surveillance Technologies

The court granted an Article 78 petition brought by the Surveillance Technology Oversight Project against the New York City Police Department seeking responses to 13 Freedom of Information Law requests concerning surveillance technologies. The requests, submitted between August 2023 and November 2024, sought records on encrypted police radios, protest surveillance, mobile wiretaps, Clearview AI, Palantir, camera systems and other technologies. Although the NYPD repeatedly acknowledged the requests, issued projected response dates and processed administrative appeals, it produced no responsive records and repeatedly extended deadlines. The court held that the NYPD's prolonged delays constituted constructive denials under FOIL and that petitioner exhausted its administrative remedies, defeating the NYPD's jurisdictional challenge. The court reasoned that FOIL requires agencies to provide genuine, particularized explanations for delays and reasonable dates for disclosure. Here, the NYPD relied on boilerplate extensions, missed self-imposed deadlines, and failed to provide request-specific justifications. The court denied the cross-motion to dismiss.

Justice Ronald Castorina Jr. Supreme Court

Surveillance Technology Oversight Project v. NYPD, 158384/2025 (Aug. 3)

KINGS | ELECTION AND POLITICAL LAW

Outgoing Party Officials Lacked Authority to Vote on Governance Changes

Petitioners Julio Pena III, Akel Williams, Jillian Cara Coger, and Johnny Sagan challenged amendments adopted at an August 25, 2026 meeting of the Kings County Democratic County Committee Executive Committee. The amendments were approved with votes cast by outgoing state committee members who had either lost reelection bids or declined to seek reelection in the June 2026 primary. Petitioners argued those members lacked authority to vote and sought declarations invalidating the rule changes and injunctive relief. The court denied respondents' motion to dismiss for failure to join necessary parties and held that the outgoing executive committee members were not authorized to vote on the amendments. Relying on party rules limiting voting membership to elected state committee members and Election Law § 2-106(4), the court concluded that members not reelected in the primary no longer possessed voting authority. Although Election Law § 2-112(1)(b) created ambiguity regarding authority between the primary and organizational meeting, the court found persuasive authority supported excluding outgoing members from votes on substantial governance matters.

Justice Jill R. Epstein Supreme Court

Pena v. Hermelyn, 532882/26 (Sept. 14)

SECOND CIRCUIT | EMPLOYMENT LITIGATION

Panel Holds EFAA Bars Arbitration of Entire Suit, Including Stock Option Claims

A former employee's sexual harassment and related employment claims may proceed in court because the Ending Forced Arbitration of Sexual Assault and Sexual Harassment Act (EFAA) applies to an entire case, not only its harassment claims. Plaintiff sued Hermes Law, ClaimDeck and related individuals, alleging sexual harassment and asserting non-harassment claims based on allegations she was fired to prevent her from exercising previously issued stock options earned during her employment. Defendants sought to compel arbitration of the non-harassment claims, contending the EFAA invalidated the pre-dispute arbitration agreement only as to claims involving sexual harassment or assault. The Second Circuit rejected that interpretation, reasoning that the statute permits a plaintiff alleging qualifying conduct to invalidate an arbitration agreement with respect to a "case" relating to a sexual harassment or sexual assault dispute. Congress's use of "case," rather than language referring to individual claims, meant the agreement was unenforceable as to the lawsuit as a whole. The panel therefore affirmed denial of the motion to compel arbitration and remanded.

U.S. - SDNY | CIVIL PROCEDURE

4-Year Delay, Completed Summary Judgment Bar Amendment; Filing Injunction Unwarranted

Defendants in a long-running dispute over a Greenwich, Connecticut residential property may not amend their answer and counterclaims nearly four years after filing them and after the litigation had progressed through summary judgment and a damages hearing. Defendants sought leave to amend after summary judgment had been granted to 136 Field Point Circle Holding Company and nearly three months after an all-day damages hearing. The district court denied leave to amend, concluding that the request came too late in the litigation. It also rejected the plaintiff's request to declare defendants vexatious litigants and impose a filing injunction. Although their conduct in this and related litigation raised concerns, much of it occurred while they were defending against claims brought by others, making the court particularly reluctant to restrict their access to the courts. A filing bar also generally should follow unsuccessful use of lesser sanctions, and no prior sanctions had been imposed and disregarded here. The court cautioned, however, that defendants' litigation history could be considered if a filing restriction is sought in the future.

District Judge Margaret M. Garnett Southern District

NEW YORK | TRUSTS AND ESTATES

Court Refuses to Remove Executor Despite Delay in Obtaining $300,000 Bond

Residuary beneficiary Dana Holland petitioned to revoke the preliminary letters testamentary issued to Carolyn Gilliard and sought appointment as fiduciary. Holland argued that Gilliard should be removed because she failed to obtain a court-ordered $300,000 bond, a condition imposed when the Surrogate's Court appointed Gilliard preliminary executor in 2024 despite concerns about her separate litigation involving estate-related bank accounts. The court held that revocation of Gilliard's preliminary letters testamentary was unwarranted and denied the petition. The court reasoned that Gilliard ultimately obtained the required bond on May 13, 2026, shortly after the amended petition was filed, and explained that the delay resulted from surety underwriting and credit issues rather than willful misconduct. Under SCPA 1412(6), revocation may be based on unreasonable delay, statutory grounds for removal, or the estate's best interests. The court found none of those grounds were present. It further determined that Holland's primary objection had become moot and that any remaining concerns regarding Gilliard's conduct were more appropriately addressed through an accounting.

KINGS | MEDICAL MALPRACTICE

Patient's Claims Over Intracranial Hypertension Diagnosis Time-Barred

Raquel Reeves sued New York Presbyterian Hospital and physicians for malpractice and lack of informed consent, alleging they failed to diagnose and treat idiopathic intracranial hypertension during June 2013 hospital visits. She commenced the action in March 2016. Defendants renewed their dismissal motion, arguing the claims exceeded CPLR 214-a's limitations period. The court granted renewal and dismissed the complaint. Defendants established that treatment ended by June 15, 2013, and by Dr. Richard Lappin on June 27, 2013. Reeves failed to raise a factual issue under the continuous treatment doctrine. Her later care from nonparty neuro-ophthalmologist Marc Dinkin could not be imputed to defendants because he was not a hospital employee and no relevant relationship was shown. The hospital referral and Dinkin's recommendation that Reeves return for emergency care were insufficient. Dr. Dean Straff's February 2014 emergency evaluation also was discrete, with no anticipated ongoing treatment after the 2013 visits. Because all malpractice claims were untimely, derivative vicarious liability claims against the hospital and the unopposed negligent hiring claim were dismissed.

Shared Transaction, Common Questions Permit Joinder of Snake Nation CEO in PPG Dispute

Planned Parenthood Global (PPG) may pursue claims against the CEO of media company Snake Nation as a counter-defendant in litigation arising from a sexual and reproductive health campaign in Africa. PPG asserted fraudulent inducement and willful misrepresentation claims against CEO Karl Carter, along with claims against Snake Nation arising from the parties' agreement. Carter moved to dismiss the third-party complaint, but the district court found he could properly be joined as a counter-defendant under FRCP 20. The claims arose from the same series of transactions or occurrences underlying Snake Nation's claims and PPG's counterclaims and presented common questions of law or fact. Those overlapping issues included whether Carter and Snake Nation made misrepresentations concerning the agreement and whether Snake Nation breached the contract, violated the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, was unjustly enriched or engaged in unfair competition. The court therefore concluded Rule 20's requirements for permissive joinder were satisfied. It also extended PPG's time to serve Carter and authorized service by email and international mail.

U.S. - EDNY | PERSONAL INJURY

Lack of Notice of Sanitizing Wipe Before Target Store Slip Defeats Negligence Claim

A shopper who slipped on a sanitizing wipe after a Brooklyn Target store cannot pursue her negligence claim because she failed to raise a triable issue that Target created or had notice of the hazardous condition. Plaintiff alleged that she was injured when she slipped on a blue wipe used to sanitize shopping carts while walking toward the store exit. Target moved for summary judgment, contending that there was no evidence it created the condition or had actual or constructive notice of the wipe before plaintiff fell. The district court granted the motion, finding the evidence insufficient to permit a jury to conclude that Target was responsible for the wipe or knew it was on the floor. Plaintiff also could not establish constructive notice without evidence showing that the wipe was visible and apparent and remained on the floor long enough for Target employees to discover and remedy it. The court rejected plaintiff's request to conduct additional employee depositions because fact discovery had already closed and the request was untimely. Target was granted summary judgment and the case was closed.

Condominium Board Cannot Sue Mortgagee Under Zombie Property Law

The court granted Wilmington Savings Fund Society, FSB, as owner trustee of the Residential Credit Opportunities Trust VI-A, dismissal of claims brought by the board of managers of a condominium seeking unpaid common charges and a vacant "zombie" property. The condominium board alleged that the mortgagee was responsible for common charges under RPAPL 1308(4)(k) and sought foreclosure-related relief under the Condominium Act. The court rejected the mortgagee's res judicata defense, finding the action involved different claims from a prior mortgage case. However, it held that the board lacked standing to sue under RPAPL 1308(4)(k). Relying on federal decisions interpreting the statute, the court reasoned that the zombie-property provisions were enacted to address neighborhood blight and provide governmental enforcement mechanisms, not private causes of action for condominium boards. The court found the mortgagee never acquired title because the foreclosure sale had not closed and therefore bore no liability for unpaid common charges. Concluding the board failed to raise a triable issue of fact, the court dismissed all claims with prejudice.

County Estopped From Raising Limitations Defense in Falling-Tree Suit

Kim Rosen alleged she was injured when a tree fell onto a car in a Friendly's parking lot in Commack in November 2018. After Rosen served Suffolk County with a notice of claim, the County represented that it neither owned nor maintained the tree, so she did not sue it. In 2025, the State disclosed an unrecorded 1970 highway easement requiring the County to maintain the property. Rosen moved to add the County and bar its limitations defense. The court granted the motion. Although the claim was untimely under General Municipal Law § 50-i, equitable estoppel applied because the inaccurate representation induced Rosen to forgo suit. The easement remained effective and imposed a maintenance obligation, making the amendment potentially meritorious. Rosen could not reasonably have discovered the unrecorded instrument, which County personnel did not know existed. The County showed no prejudice because discovery remained open and it had defended another claim from the incident. The amended complaint was deemed served, and the County was estopped from asserting the statute of limitations.

U.S. - SDNY | BUSINESS TORTS

Sexually Suggestive Search Terms Plausibly Support Massage Therapist's Defamation Claims

A massage therapist may pursue defamation claims alleging Yellowpages.com falsely associated her business listing with sexually suggestive search terms. Plaintiff contended that searches involving terms including "Russian" and "nude, gay massage" were linked to her listing although sexual services were not her line of work. The court declined to dismiss the defamation claims, finding the allegations sufficient at the pleading stage to support a plausible claim that the associations conveyed a defamatory implication about plaintiff and the nature of her business. The court rejected defendants' request to transfer the action and denied their motions to strike declarations submitted by plaintiff, although it granted in part their alternative requests to disregard those materials. The individual defendant was dismissed without prejudice as the court lacked personal jurisdiction over him. Plaintiff's negligent and intentional infliction of emotional distress claims were dismissed with prejudice for failure to state a claim, but her defamation claims survived. The court therefore granted the motions to dismiss only in part and allowed the central defamation claims to proceed.
